No doubt in the world exists but Andrew Johnson is on the verge of active insurrection. The rebels have only to say things to him to bring him to the very verge of rebellion. No Know-nothing is sufficiently subservient except in his own ability to protect himself. And this, measurably, is the condition in most of the Southern States. Associations are daily occurrences. The fact that Union men only are murdered, and no murderer is punished or even arrested tells the whole story. If Swann and Reynolds can make a good run in the South, it will not be because their friends are not active.

The telegraph brings us the interesting statement that at a meeting of political leaders to be held at Long Branch next week special arrangements will be made for carrying Pennsylvania and Ohio for the Democracy. We would like to see the details of such an arrangement. No doubt the Whisky Ring would be found there; but who could believe that either State can be carried for anybody and Bloss by such means simply defeats himself. Seymour, in 1863, entered into a like arrangement to assist Lee's invasion, but it failed, and any arrangement, whether at Long Branch or elsewhere, for similar purposes now will also fail.

The Pittsburgh Post says Mr. Conway was a Know Nothing. It parades what it pretends was the oath to which he subscribed. We will not insult our neighbor knew but the craftiness of agents is wholly gratuitous; he manifests such lamentable ignorance concerning other things that we readily believe that he is ignorant of the fact that Mr. Conway has distinctly and unequivocally denied the statement. But will the Post tell us about Pierce Bryan's Know Nothingism after Bryan was the second time elected to Congress he was the Know Nothing candidate. If there is a Lodge of the Order still in existence, we presume he is a member. The Post should be silent about Know Nothings. Not only is the Democratic candidate for Vice President a Know Nothing of the double-and-twisted kind, but the candidate of the party for Congress in this District was one of the Grand Canons of the Order, so long as it had importance. Bunco-seeking editors would exceedingly become our Democratic Irish-Roman Catholic contemporary.

SHOULD BE REPLACED WITH A SOLDIER CANDIDATE.

We submit to the Democracy the propriety of exchanging General A. E. Lawton, of rebel fame or any General Pierrot, Lee, Breckenridge, or, in fact, any of the primitive lambs among the Southern leaders who now dogmatize extreme views and insecure, and sorrowingly deplore the present condition of the country. Lawton is too outspoken by half. He should husband his ammunition, unless it is his firm resolve to trust to the bayonet in the hour of the fray. Doubtless he is one of that noble type of Southerners who, in the beginning of the contest, confounded cruelty with valor, crowned cotton king, and, indulge the belief that slavery was confined to the Southern climates. Speaking of the Pittsburgh platform, this rebel General said:

> [illegible]

It is evident that the Democrats of the South require something a little stronger than the Democracy of the North. The new light hath the utterances of the Democrats in the North, compared with the speeches of the majority of the Southern Democracy, resemble each other about as much as the weakest pianola resembles forty-mule whistle.

The editor of the New York World if we are to judge from the tone of that sheet, has never experienced the pangs of disappointment. Everything he desired he obtained, everything he attempted to accomplish he did, his fondest hopes were gratified, his life dominion was a glittering success. The presumption is not based upon any foundation weaker than the evidence he affords the public through the columns of his journal, in which he labors to prove that the man who was unsuccessful in the application for the post of City Surveyor of St. Louis is unfit for the office of President. The World also affects the greatest contempt for the "man who draws a nice home from 'oaf of wood" into the city which he is to secure office, only to be the man who finds he has grievously lost more than he gained." How we have two cardinal objections to this theory. First, he failed to secure the office of City Surveyor himself, and we invite the earnest attention of working men generally to this point; he has been guilty of drawing a foreclosure loan. As a matter of course, persons who failed to secure an office envy the lucky individual who did get it, and we are guilty of selling wood by the cord, but within him no spark of manhood, to be worth the contempt of Democratic journals, which, however strong they may be in theory, are decidedly weak in practice.

From all of which we opine that when the leading Democratic journals discuss the unfavorable sentiments and most working people, it is with the express understanding that they are to reserve leading people, middle and Democratic voters. Such contingency as their going from an office of trust or profit is not to be entertained, even for a moment. Is it possible that the last thought of a time politician is the wresting of the engine of power from his hand by that irresistible and desperate rival, Bruce Patterson—he gets the office of Mayor to our Herod Hoover is no exception to the general conclusion.

Never, in the history of nations, has a greater opportunity been offered than that presented to the conservatives of the country. Millions of the workers who earnestly call from all quarters of the land, and tens of thousands of them, in fact, daily meet face to face. The best guide of the greatest party conference in the country, instead of acting as a last resource of the champion of the Government by uniting from the gore of an outraged people, ratified in the suppression of all rights, should promise to act upon the hypothesis that treason is no crime, be it theft, or anarch's watch has never had a parallel in history.

But when these avowed enemies of the Republic, not content with the shelter afforded them by a wise form of government, have the audacity to declare that they are more entitled to the rights of American citizenship than the loyal men who have preserved the Government they would destroy, the people are entreated to say, by their surprise at the new departure which characterizes the proceeding, but while men will ask each other where is the difference between a contender on the battle-field and a traitor in the council, all candid men will say that should have no preference with these leaders over the enemies in the ranks of those who, if successful, would establish a government of which they would be the head.

And those Democrats who have been driven by them, no matter what their record may be, or how earnestly they were devoted to the Union in the time of trial, must realize the fact that in the conflict that is to follow they must abide with either the control of the Government, they are either forced to be

SMALL NOTES.

Allen having somehow or other of liberal and unfettered power from the Democracy in his vein, is no longer the "Wickedest Man" in New York. The question, therefore — to whom does that honor belong? Bennett is the incumbent on Mr. Dana to relieve the public from suspense on the point. And while his hand is to it, will he not give the public some idea about the Wickedest Woman in New York? Here is a field for Mr. Dana seemingly broad and deep enough for any man.

The world grows concisely. The Union Pacific railroad has been completed and is running the distance of seven hundred and eighty miles. It is quite evident, however, for Salt Lake, the outpost to which surrounding region is likely to be attended with some confusion and disappointment. A letter under date of August 27th says public opinion is much exercised over the coolness evinced by Washington, whether south or south of the line. There can be no doubt that there is a strong desire there to have the road come by Utah valley, the object, no doubt, the paying, Ellis county and of the lake and along the mountains, thence westward to Humboldt Wells. Brigham Young, in the Tabernacle lately, said that the road ought to come by the south, and if it did not it would be an insult to the citizens of the Territory. It is not likely that the road will be deflected one way or an other to please the Mormons, but will go straight ahead to meet the mark that, if we are reading right, is emerging from the Pacific coast. Whenever it does it will be quite safe to "bet the dark out" of the Mormon theocracy.

The Post omitted to mention that Governor Geary made a speech at the Rink, on Monday night, while it was Wm. Blackburn's speech in full. Whether the omission was by slight of the reporter, or the very respectable gentleman upon whose recollection he was present, is not quite apparent. But Wade Hampton occupied somewhat twenty a place as orator of the evening, the Post would have extended a point to get his speech in full.

The Post gathers a statesman's opinions of the attitude of Mr. Butler, who, in the article quoted, is spoken of as the "candidate for second honors?" There is no intelligent voter for you.

An editor of this city declares that "he knows Horace Greeley personally very well," and that "he loves the whole Blair family." If Seymour and Blair should be elected, we can assure the latter that we will expect to receive the White House with open arms.

The Democratic Committee has not yet succeeded in filling up a city ticket. The voters of the party were not allowed a voice in making the county ticket, and the wire-workers have likewise taken the whole direction of candidates for Mayor, Controller and Treasurer. The Democracy, however, have long since had no little chance of getting into power, that they have lost all interest in local politics. Illinois, Kentucky, and Tennessee will continue to maintain their superiority in the production of corn. The same writer points out the fact that "the centre of wheat production has been steadily going West," and inclines to the belief that the crop will "tend rather south than North." However this may be, the facts we have set forth cannot fail to excite the attention of every one interested in the future prosperity of our country.

Ex-Governor Wise, who is consulted by to a sub adviser in matters of that kind, answers to a friend who also desired to "hook" his name, "your letter is too late. I have been gratified. My advice was not to hedge at all, but if he were to make no betting nearly as sure thing as possible, we would advise him after laying out $2,000 or $3,000 to invest about one-third of the amount in buying Seymour electors, and the remainder in Seymour bonds. He can make a good deal of money in that way, and if Seymour and Blair be elected, they will be worth fifty cents on the dollar.

The Board evidently don't think much of him. Hon. Thomas Wilson suggests the propriety of the Board of Education "taking a vote upon themselves," and that "he knows the whole thing by heart well," and that "he knows the whole Blair family." If Seymour and Blair should be elected, we can assure the latter that we will expect to receive the White House with open arms.

GENERAL AND PARTICULAR.

The Kelley's Island Wine Company have commenced, within the last four days, for the gingerpresses on two hundred acres of vineyard on Kelley's Island, at five and a half cents per pound, upon grapes of eighty-five degrees saccharine strength.

The sheriff of Warwick county, Virginia, brought a capital punishment case in a striking manner the other day. The prisoner was a negro named Young, convicted of a murder committed two years ago. The sheriff omitted the election proclamation for holding the election which broke when the platform fell, and the hatchingout which was kept in torture until a new age was procured.

The Worcester announces the sad fact that the cargo in the Red Cloud contained in the Worcester Society for Improved Agriculture, to which the whole country has contributed any kind of grain will be furnished and that the proceedings will be very meagre. Also, the granddaughter having gotten the dumb ague so that she made their application for a patent of corn meal mills. There are now 3,000 persons in that destitute locality who have starved without any bread.

Dan Billings says if it was "time of corn" in Kansas, and he was out of whisky, and a man offered him a bottle of corn juice, he would take it. He would not be particular about the quality of the corn, and if the man should say it was made from "nubbins" he would not be offended. He would take it, and if it was not a good article he would say so, and if it was a good article he would say so, and if it was a good article he would say so, and if it was

CITY MATTERS.

Accompanied Disobedience.

Furnished daily to [illegible]

Proposed Purchase, Improved [illegible]

Fire.—The [illegible] will not need much repairs.

Coroner.—The Coroner [illegible] Monday morning [illegible] completed. The work of sawing on Market street progressed well to-day.

Funeral.—The funeral of Mr. C. A. Mayer, [illegible] of Birmingham, took place this afternoon from the late residence in that [illegible] Second street, Pittsburgh.

Deaths in the City.—From the first to the twenty-third of the month of August there were ninety-three deaths in the corporate limits of the city, as reported by the Physician of the Health Bureau.

A Dead Horse.—The carcass of a dead horse lying in the Monongahela river, just above the Birmingham ferry landing, should be removed forthwith, for the good of the public health.

Disorderly.—Eleven disorderly and fast [illegible] were disposed of by Alderman Gripp this morning. Some of them were [illegible] and others were [illegible] to pay the costs of prosecution.

Back to Work.—The employés of the Pittsburgh Rolling Mill Company, on Second avenue, who have been on a strike for the past week, returned to work this morning, and the mill is now in full operation.

Back to Work Once More.—The employés of the Pittsburgh Locomotive Works, on the West Penn Railroad, in the Fifteenth ward, returned to work this morning, after a [illegible] week's strike. The "Black Joe," a [illegible] passenger engine, was the first one [illegible] from the establishment.

Another Accident.—Coroner Kennedy was notified [illegible] of another accident which occurred at Wilson's mill, on Second avenue, Birmingham, yesterday afternoon, by which a man named [illegible] had his leg broken. [illegible] was engaged in [illegible] when the accident occurred.

Court of Common Pleas—Notice to Parents.—The following notice to parents is published by Hon. Wilson McCandless, President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, for the information of those interested:

Notice is hereby given that the private entrance to the court room of Common Pleas No. 2 will be closed against all persons under the age of twenty-one years, except those who are actually engaged in the trial of causes.

Fire Alarm Monthly Report.—The following statistical report of the Fire Alarm and Police Telegraph, for a report of the operations of the telegraph during the month of August, has been prepared by Superintendent Lewis: The number of alarms on the big bell was three and one each from all of the number two bells. Number of false alarms were four, of the number two bells one each. The total number of alarms were eight, of which there was a total loss of $1,000, and the total insurance $2,000. The time consumed in answering the alarms was from one to three minutes, on an average. The total number of alarms for the month was four of fire, one of false, and three of practice, making a total of eight. By the use of the telegraph all the companies were on the ground in time.

A Child Poisoned from Eating Lemon Seeds.—A little son of Mr. Wilson Strong, residing in Lawrenceville, the station on the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago road, Monday evening, was eating the pulp of lemons, and, after the little fellow, who is only twenty months old, had put away from the floor of the dwelling many the temperance shells, he ate another and the first shells he chanced to find. Mistaking what it consisted of, he ate the seeds of one lemon, when discovered would find about half the second. What was immediately sent for Dr. Richard, of South Pittsburgh, and the doctor visited the sufferer. Powerful emetics were administered, and it is now thought that the child will recover. It is very fortunate [illegible] the children [illegible] of lemons.

The Central Block.—This block, although among the most ornamental of our commercial buildings, has not yet taken rank among the permanent, and the most reliable of our banking institutions. Its [illegible] are [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] ground and only a large capital, [illegible] of tact, energy and business ability, is a sufficient guarantee to the business public that the [illegible] of the market, [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
